Company Name : Antofagasta plc

Company Sector : Mining

Operating Geography : United Kingdom, Europe, Global

About the Company :

Antofagasta plc, a British multinational copper mining entity headquartered in London, UK, holds a prominent position in the mining industry with extensive operations in Chile and Peru. Established in 1888, the company originated to operate a railway connecting Antofagasta, a port on Northern Chile's Pacific coast, to La Paz, Bolivia's capital city. Antofagasta engages in exploration, mining ownership, operation, and sales of a diverse range of commodities, including bulk commodities and base metals, such as copper, gold, molybdenum, and silver. Beyond its mining ventures, Antofagasta owns and manages a rail network in northern Chile, crucial for serving the mining region, and holds a water distribution concession in the same area. The company plays a vital role in supplying products to industries like infrastructure, automotive, engineering, and steel production. Although its operations extend globally, Antofagasta's primary focus remains in Chile, where it operates four copper mines: Los Pelambres, Centinela, Antucoya, and Zaldívar (50% owned in partnership with Barrick Gold). The Luksic family, holding a 65% ownership stake, significantly influences Antofagasta. As one of the major international copper producers, Antofagasta continues to shape the mining landscape with its commitment to sustainable and responsible practices. With a workforce comprising around 30,000 employees and contractors as of 2023, the company remains a key player in the global mining sector.

Antofagasta plc's USP lies in its being one of the world's leading copper miners and one of the industry's largest multinational copper producers. The mission statement of Antofagasta reads, "To develop mining for a better future in an innovative, sustainable, and inclusive manner".
