Company Name : Spirit AeroSystems

Company Sector : Aircraft Manufacturing

Operating Geography : United States, North America, Global

About the Company :

Spirit AeroSystems, Inc., is a first-tier aerostructures manufacturer headquartered in Wichita, Kansas. Spirit's origins in the United States may be traced back to 1927, when aviation pioneer Lloyd Stearman relocated his manufacturing, Stearman Aircraft Company, from Los Angeles to Wichita, Kansas. In 2005, Boeing sold its Wichita division and Oklahoma operations to Spirit AeroSystems, which began the transition from a single-source supplier to a global provider with various platforms. The company's key products include fuselages, integrated wings and wing components, pylons, and nacelles, and it specialises in aluminium and advanced composite manufacturing solutions. It creates aerostructures for every Boeing aircraft now in production (including the majority of the 737's aerostructures) as well as Boeing's main competitor, Airbus. It is a major wing-parts supplier for Airbus' A320 aircraft. 95 per cent of the company's revenue comes from Boeing and Airbus. MRO (maintenance, repair, and overhaul) services are also available from Spirit AeroSystems. As of 2023, the company employed over 18,200 people

Spirit AeroSystems Inc.'s Unique selling point lies in its being the world's major manufacturers of aerostructures for commercial aeroplanes, defence platforms, and business/regional jets. The mission statement of Spirit reads, "Spirit maximizes the power of diversity in people, knowledge and technology by Attracting, retaining and developing a diverse workforce. Recognizing and respecting the diversity of the marketplace. Working and partnering with vendors from a diverse supplier base".
