Company Name : Cheniere Energy Inc.

Company Sector : Energy

Operating Geography : United States, North America, Global

About the Company :

Headquartered in Houston, Texas, Cheniere Energy, Inc. is involved in the production of liquefied natural gas (LNG) firm. The company began as an oil and gas exploration company in 1996. It owns and operates LNG terminals, as well as liquefaction projects near Corpus Christi, Texas, and at the Sabine Pass LNG facility. Integrated energy companies, utilities, and energy trading companies around the world use the company's cleans, secures, and LNG. The company buys natural gas and converts it to LNG, which it then sells to customers who can load the LNG onto their ships at its terminals or have it delivered to regasification plants all over the world. The Sabine Pass liquefaction project in southwest Louisiana and the Corpus Christi liquefaction facility in South Texas are both in various stages of development on the USA Gulf Coast. Over 70% of revenue is generated outside of the USA. Cheniere also owns pipelines and runs a natural gas and LNG marketing company. As of early 2023, Cheniere Energy employed over 1530 people.

Cheniere Energy, Inc.'s Unique Selling Point or USP lies in it being the number one LNG producer in the United States and the second-largest LNG operator in the world.
