Company Name : Kyocera Corporation

Company Sector : Electronics & Ceramics

Operating Geography : Japan, Asia, Global

About the Company : Kyocera Corporation is a Japanese multinational electronic equipment and components manufacturer headquartered in Kyoto, Japan. The company primarily engages in the provision of automotive parts, semiconductor-related parts and electronic parts. Kyocera employs a dynamic workforce of 75,505 people as of 2020. The core product of the company, that is, ceramics, was utilized by its founder, Dr. Kazuo Inamori. He recognized the potential of this highly versatile material and created his brand around it. Kyocera was established in 1959 and consequently became one of the flagship companies to produce fine ceramic components. In January 2000, Mita Corporation was reorganized to become Kyocera Corporation. The company has rapidly grown into one of the world's prominent producers of electronics and other products that utilize ceramics and its intricate electronics technology. Kyocera's subsidiaries include Kyocera Mita, Kyocera International and AVX Corp. Kyocera is committed towards addressing CSR issues, cultivating relationships of mutual trust with stakeholders, and striving for sustainable growth while contributing to the healthy development of society. Kyocera was featured on the "Top 100 Global Innovators" lists by Clarivate Analytics. The company also received 6 Summer 2019 Awards from BLI.

Kyocera Corporation's unique selling proposition or USP lies in being the world's foremost manufacturers of fine-ceramic components for the information and communication industries. Its mission statement reads, "To provide our customers with the most efficient and productive office technology at the most competitive pricing in our industry and back it with a service department that is second to none."
