Company Name : LendingClub

Company Sector : Financial Services

Operating Geography : United States, North America

About the Company : LendingClub is an American peer-to-peer lending company. It has its headquarters in San Francisco, California. The company was the foremost peer-to-peer lender to record its offering as securities with the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) and to provide loan trading on a secondary market. It was first launched on Facebook as one of its first applications. Later, the company expanded into a full-scale peer-to-peer lending company. Lending Club allows its borrowers to generate loan listings on its website by providing details about themselves and about their loan request. Post application, the company will determine whether the borrower will be granted the requested loan on the basis of the borrower's credit score, credit history, desired loan amount, and the borrower's debt-to-income ratio. The standard loan is for three years. Lending Club has also started partnering with smaller banks to help streamline their small loan operations and roll out loans to small businesses. It also offers car loans and mortgages. In 2020, the company announced its discontinuity in its secondary trading platform, hosted by Folio, decreasing liquidity for existing peer-to-peer investors. From December 31, 2020, LendingClub called down the curtains on retail P2P offerings. The company has been recognized by Forbes as one of America's 20 most promising companies.

Lending Club's Unique Selling Proposition or USP lies in it being one of the most innovative financial companies in the world. Lending Club's mission statement reads, "To transform the banking system to make credit more affordable and investing more rewarding."
